DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to because of the informalities noted on the attached PTO 948. Correction is required.
2. This application has been filed with informal drawings which are acceptable for examination purposes only. Formal drawings will be required when the application is allowed.

Rejection Withdrawal

3. The rejection of claim 1 under 35 U.S.C. 112 is withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103© and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).
5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 1-141 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Becker et al. with Patent Number 5,878,223 in view of Stavitzky et al. with Patent Number 6,012, 083

7. Regarding claim(s) 1, 11, 25, 27, 28, 32-34, 44, 46, 56, 59, 65, 67-70, 73-74, 130-132, 136-138, Becker teaches a page finder based on a user profile. Becker teaches a network, col. 4, lines 13-18. Becker teaches using profiles to determine the content to send to a user, col. 4, 5, lines 54-57, 1-4. Becker teaches a hierarchical attribute value pair data structure, col. 9, lines 1-10. Becker teaches the invention in the above claim(s) except for explicitly teaching a user-profile. In that Becker operates to generate user based documents, the artisan would have looked to the network arts for details of implementing user selections. In that art, Stavitzky, a related network system, teaches “a web server to transform the requests from the Web client”, abstract, lines 2-3. Stavitzky specifically teaches that a “feature calculator generates a feature list for a transaction by scanning the data element”, col. 6, lines 37-39 based on the user’s requests, and an agent “modifies them according to filtering rules before documents are returned to a client”, col. 11, lines 32-34 which also reads on a hierarchical attribute value data pair data structure . Further, Stavitzky suggests that “the user typically accesses agency 10 by some action taken with a Web client to access to a Web server”, col. 5, lines 1-3 will result from implementing his network system. The motivation to incorporate a user profile insures highly related documents are matched with a user. Thus, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to incorporate the user profile as taught in Stavitzky into network system described in Becker because Becker operates with finding documents in a computer network and Stavitzky suggests that optimization can be obtained with networks. Therefore, by the above rational, the above claims are rejected.

8. Regarding claims 2, 3, 12, 13, 18, 19, 21, 24, Stavitzky teaches attributes of a user, col. 6, lines 55-60. Thus, the above claim limitations are obvious in view of the combination.

9. Regarding claims 4, 14, Stavitzky teaches preferences of a user, col. 11, lines 29-30. Thus, the above claim limitations are obvious in view of the combination.

10. Regarding claims 5, 6, 15-16, Stavitzky teaches chat rooms or services, col. 6, lines 65-66. Thus, the above claim limitations are obvious in view of the combination.

11. Regarding claims 7, 17, Stavitzky teaches directory for routing content, col. 6, lines 57-59. Thus, the above claim limitations are obvious in view of the combination.

12. Regarding claims 8, 20, 23, 26, 31, 37, 45, 54, 57, 58, 61-63, 66, 71, 72, 75, 76, 94-95, 97, 11, 120, 135, Becker teaches transmitting selected information, col. 5, lines 50-53. Thus, the above claim limitations are obvious in view of the combination.

13. Regarding claims 22, 29, 30, 35, 36, 38-43, 47, 48-53, 55, 77-93, 96, 98-117, 119, 121-129, 133-134, 139-141, Stavitzky teaches monitoring the activities of a user, col. 11, lines 28-29. Thus, the above claim limitations are obvious in view of the combination.

Response to Amendment

14. The broad claim language used is interpreted on its face and based on this interpretation the claims have been rejected.

15. Applicant's arguments fail to comply with 37 CFR 1.111(b) because they amount to a general allegation that the claims define a patentable invention without specifically pointing out how the language of the claims patentably distinguishes them from the references.

16. The limited structure claimed, without more functional language, reads on the references provided. Thus, Applicant's arguments can not be held as persuasive regarding patentability.

17. Applicant suggests "the hierarchical attribute value data pair data structure is quite different from other data structures, as is apparent from the many advantages ... the attribute value pair is independent of the hierarchical structure", Paper No. 8, Page 3, lines 2-3. The above argument is not commensurate with what is presently claimed and therefore will not be considered at this time. The presently claimed data structure is indistinguishable from a relational database where different data fields have varying importance, which is taught as an agent "modifies them according to filtering rules before documents are returned to a client", col. 11, lines 32-34. Said rules read on a "hierarchical attribute value pair data structure" as claimed as understood based on the subject matter as a whole as would have been understood at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which the subject matter pertains. Thus, Applicant's arguments can not be held as persuasive regarding patentability.

Conclusion

18. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure is disclosed in the Notice of References Cited.

19. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

20. A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
